MAKING MEMORIES DOWN SOUTH

Mike Axsom. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 494 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.2in. In the fall of 1969, James Andrew Exum, Jr. , is 30 years old, a good looking and very wealthy man who inherited his family business at the age of 20, after his father's death. His father James Andrew Exum, knew that James would one day inherit Exum Textiles. He made sure that James had the best tutors brought in five days a week to their family mansion to educate young James. He was very privileged, but was extremely sheltered his whole life by his father. By chance or fate on one afternoon while James was being chauffeured to Greensboro, NC for a business conference the limo happened to start having mechanical trouble. The chuffer pulled into the small town of Elon College for some repair work. James was enchanted with the small town and all the college students. He walked around the Town of Elon College and thought of everything that he was not able to experience as a college student and the things he missed out on being educated at home. As he crossed the street an attractive young woman made him stop in his tracks. He discreetly followed her to her classroom where he learned she was a history teacher. He automatically knew he wanted to learn more about her, but how. As he made his way back to the limo he saw a board nailed to the outside of a building that had classified ads pinned to it. One stood out, Room for rent with personal bath- Call David. He removed the ad and put it in his coat pocket. He knew in his heart at that moment he wanted something different in life, he yearned for happy memories with friends and...
